

From: Michael Dunlap
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/23/02 10:23am
Subject: Microsoft antitrust case

To Whom It May Concern,

As a U.S. citizen and IT professional, I need to object in the strongest fashion to the proposed settlement with Microsoft. The company is a monopolist which shows no intention of ceasing its illegal behaviour, and the settlement does little to prevent Microsoft from engaging in this behaviour. If this settlement is allowed, it will just be a matter of time before Microsoft is brought up on antitrust charges again, forcing the U.S. to waste more of its taxpayers' money and time.

Microsoft needs to be forced to comply with standards and cease monopolistic behaviour since they have no intention of voluntarily doing so. The settlement does not adequately address this aim.

Thank you for your time,
Michael Dunlap

(The opinion stated here does not necessarily reflect that of Yale University.)